Foreword

This year the staff of the PIRATAN has selected The Pirate Ship, our newly adopted school emblem, as the theme of the 1963 PIRATAN. We feel that using The Pirate Ship throughout this yearbook will help to endorse it in the school and community for the coming years.

Since The Pirate Ship is a home for pirates, we wish to make this book a home of memories of events that have taken place at our school during the school year of 1962 and 1963.

School is not only for learning; it also has the duty to instill in our youth the qualities that are necessary for a full, enjoyable life—companionship, friendship, leadership, and sportsmanship. The students of West Carrollton Senior High School have an excellent opportunity to grasp these characteristics; and in doing so, they will contribute to a better, more understanding world of the future.

As you leaf through these pages, remember that pictured are the faces of those who will sail the seas of tomorrow; and all too soon that tomorrow will be here.

Behind this door lies knowledge just waiting to be learned.

The translucent glass brick of the outside walls is practical and adds beauty to the school.

The second section of our new school was opened this fall, thus providing bigger and better facilities.

This Is West

Our school is lonely without the hubbub of its students.

Carrollton High

This peaceful parking lot is filled with action when the day's final bell rings.

In our familiar scene, some things remain forever. The portals we enter at the start of our day, the classes with their occasionally grumbling teachers, the voices, and the friendly feel of a doorknob are all part of our effervescent school life.

Within These

We shall always remember our school days. They will be stamped on our memories forever. Years from now we may want to see our old classmates, teachers, classrooms, teammates, ball games, dances and many other happenings that seem unforgettable to us now.

When such a time comes, the PIRATAN Staff hopes that you will open this book and leaf through the memories of the 1962-63 school year.

Classic and modern paperbacks enticed pocket money from David A. Johnson at the Library Club's first book fair.

Walls — Self-Expression

Our school is a building with a special purpose. It was constructed for us who study and learn now and for those who will follow in the years ahead. Our friends, with whom we study and play, and our teachers, who inspire and guide us in the search of wisdom and truth, are here. Our school is a necessary part of the stream of our heritage, and its influence touches us all. School is part of our legacy of freedom; may it remain so forever.

Ever changing, never the same and ever new, our scene is exciting and alive. Sometimes we may think only about our future and how far away it is. These few years in school are the most valuable years of our lives. Always seeking the new, learning the most, and doing our best, we must enjoy our scene now and, at the same time, prepare ourselves to accept the responsibilities of that teeming, austere yet joyful world that awaits us

Inspiration and Reflection

This year West Carrollton had many forms of education. Besides the usual classroom lecture and textbook, there were new assemblies and special events. Among these were "The Story of Money" and lectures about Africa and the Soviet Union.

Murray Holt's display, "The Story of Money," which went from West Carrollton to the Seattle Worlds' Fair, told how money came to be used after bartering had been practiced for thousands of years. Also, Mohamed Cassam, an eighteen-year-old Tanganyikan citizen, who was born of Indian parents and educated in Britain, spoke informally to the civics classes. He related his ideas, which had been formed from living in other countries, to the ideas of America and world affairs

A Tanganyikan citizen, Mohamed Cassam, visited the civics classes and talked about his people and his ideas of Africa

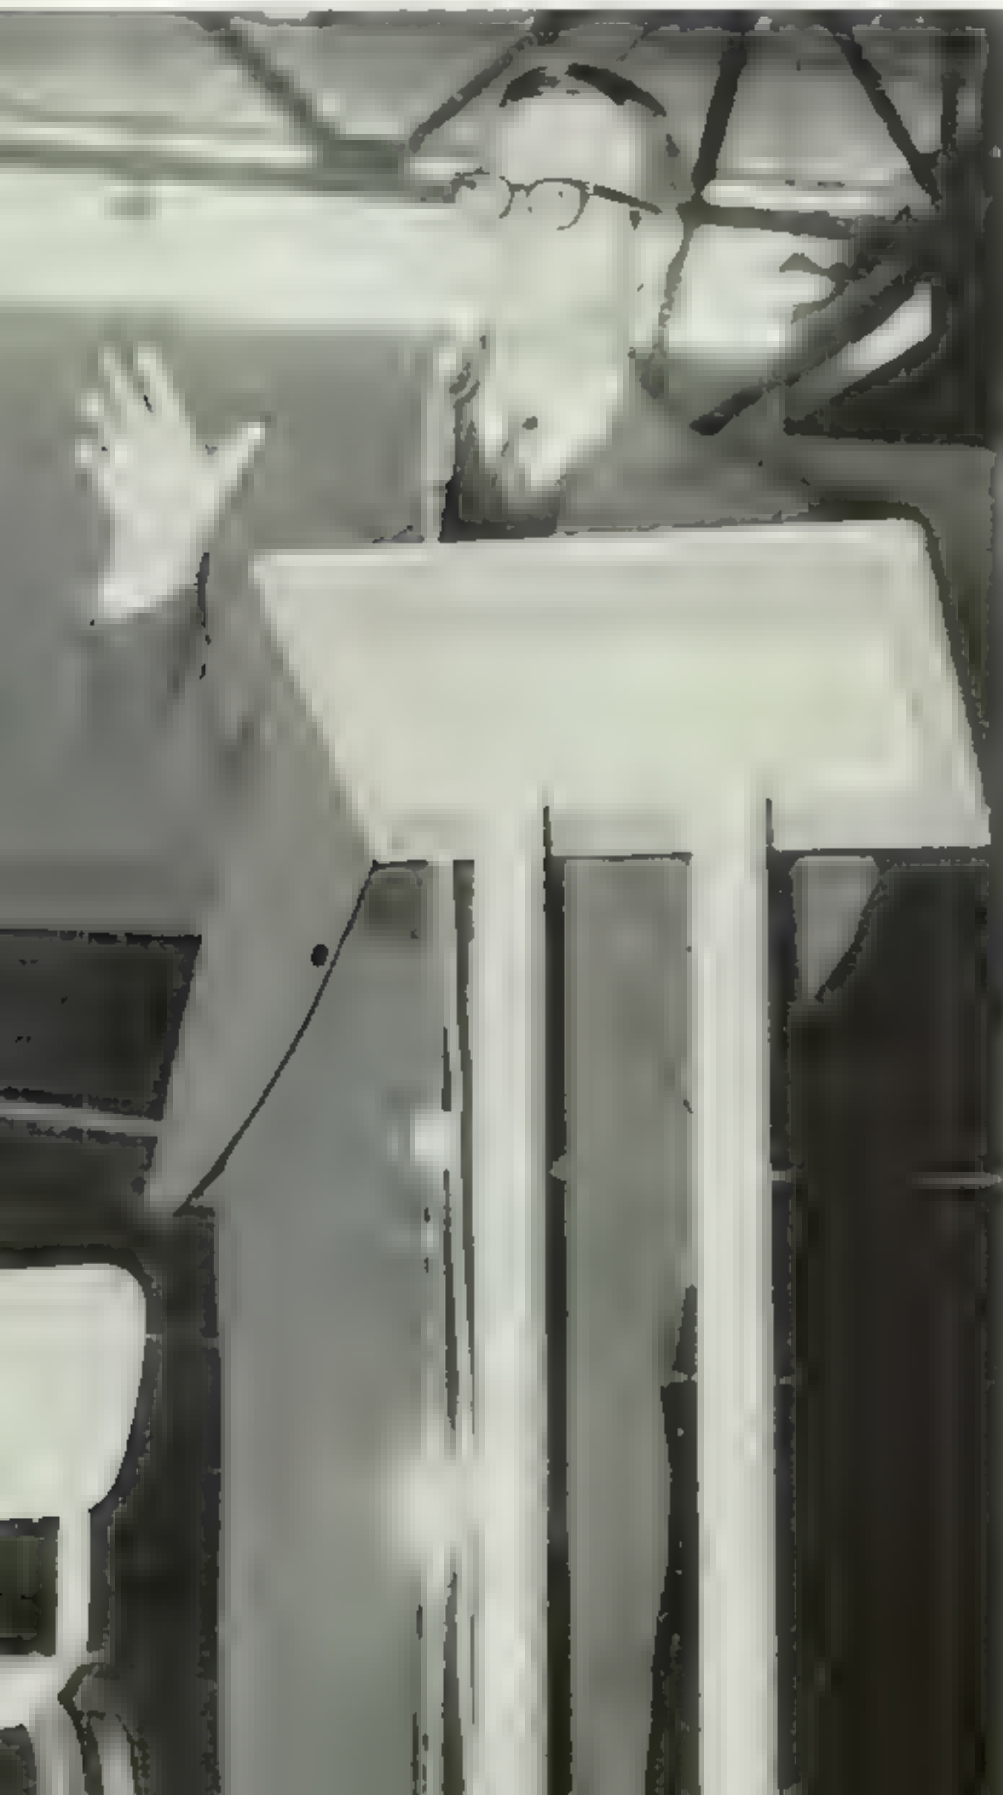

Mr. Murray Holt diligently explains his display, "The Story of Money," to David Jamison, while Janice Goforth and Ricky Bush browse leisurely around the exhibit

Urge Us Onward

In September Mr. Philip Shellhaas, a political science major working on his Ph.D., visited us and spoke about his recent three-month tour of the Soviet Union in a special assembly.

Moreover, College night celebrated its third birthday at our school on January 10. Eleven colleges sent representatives to inform students and their parents about college life, courses, and fees. The program, produced by the guidance department, was very rewarding to the students and teachers.

Philip Shellhaas, a Fulbright scholar, tells about his three months of traveling in Russia

Mr. L. Fox and Mr. J. D. Strahan were two of the WC delegates to the Ohio Education Association Convention held in Columbus in November

At the first experimental senior seminar to be held by the Dayton Chamber of Commerce, Paula Loffer chats with Howard Dursk of the Coca-Cola Company

Mr. Kemp Allemang of Wilmington College discusses the requirements and tuition of Wilmington

Test tubes gurgling with mysterious solutions, exotic lands with strange-sounding names, thought-provoking logarithms, and aching muscles from that last exercise in gym are evidence of the methods by which West Carrollton's students are taught. Dedicated and friendly, our teachers are human; and the smiles they express will always be remembered.

Formulating Policies Is Board's Task

Serving the West Carrollton School System for the 1962-63 school year are Mrs. June Burns, Vice-President; Mr. Harold Schnell, Superintendent; Dr. Henry Shade, Mr. Basil Brown, Mr. Robert

Christman, President; Mr. Earl Blackburn, Mr. Forrest Treon, Clerk, Treasurer

Taking time to pose before a Board meeting at Walter Shade School are Mr. Christman, President, and Mrs. Burns, Vice-President Constantly striving to promote the welfare of our school system was the West Carrollton Board of Education. Meeting on the third Wednesday of each month, the board members devoted endless hours of their time to enable our community to have a more efficient school system.

At the annual reorganization meeting, the school board elected

Mr. Robert L. Christman President and Mrs. June T. Burns as Vice-President. In selecting these officers for 1963, the board continued its policy of rotating officers each year.

Other members of the school board are Mr. Basil R. Brown, Mr. Earl Blackburn, Dr. Henry Shade, Mr. Forest Treon, and Mr. Harold Schnell.

Mr. Dickinson T. Guiler

Assistant Superintendent

At the Ohio Education Association delegate assembly in Columbus, November 29 through December 1, 1962, Mr. Dickinson Guiler was installed as president of the 75,000-teacher association.

Editing the Intercom, the faculty paper, was one of Mr. Guiler's many duties as an assistant superintendent. He assumed the responsibilities of coordinating the entire curriculum, directing research projects, and supervising the adult school program. As director of pupil personnel, he saw that records were kept of all grade levels and capably managed all testing programs.

Mr. Harold E. Schnell

Superintendent

In his eight years as Superintendent of West Carrollton Schools, Mr. Harold E. Schnell has seen the enrollment grow to a high of 3830 this year.

As top man in this school system, Mr. Schnell was appointed chairman of the Ohio Association of School Administrators. He also attended the Air Force Academy, near Colorado Springs, to learn what is expected of students who hope to attend the school.

Mr. Dickinson Guiler, toastmaster, was presented with a piece of luggage at the O.E.A. convention banquet. Mr. John Strahan, Mr. Harold Schnell, and Mr. Lyle Fox were West Carrollton's delegates to the convention.

Mr. John D. Strahan

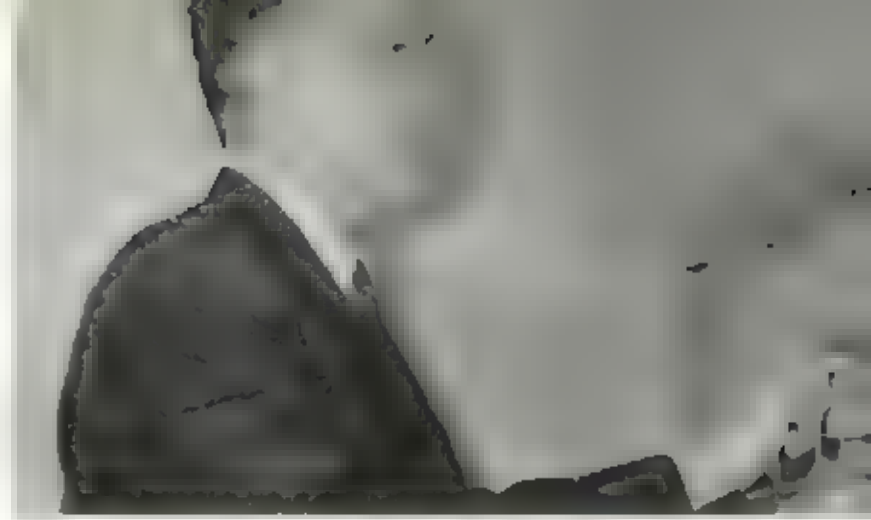

Principal

Education is a key to life. It is most essential if we are to succeed and for our country to continue to be the world leader it is

The world itself is a broad one and includes all learning experiences. The public school has provided for you a basic education and has given you the tools and skills to continue your learning as long as you live.

As you look through this book you will remember many things: events, friends, and teachers. Certain memory patterns will tend to form, and the school year will be unlocked. Do not forget your education; however, it is a basic element to life and to our American Democracy.

Administrative assistants helped the school operate efficiently. These capable people were a hidden staff, often unseen, but giving much of their time. The administration worked diligently helping students in every way possible.

While Mrs. Bogan carefully looks over the empty plate, Mr. Bogan tries helplessly to explain why he is still hungry.

A faculty party was held in the high school cafeteria in October. The informal affair proved to be a very successful evening, and it may possibly continue as a tradition. Many teachers attended, bringing with them a covered dish. Later these were served buffet style. Square-dancing provided the entertainment for the evening and our faculty had a good ol' time.

"Do-si-do and around we go." This familiar square dance call could be heard as Mrs. Langley, Mr. Strahan, and Mr. and Mrs. Huffman enjoy themselves.

Behind the scene the cooks prepare our meals

Health, Cleanliness

This year we initiated two serving lines in which our Government Type A lunches were purchased. Both lines were opened to serve students in a shorter amount of time. For better meal planning, several of our cafeteria staff attended workshops and conferences during the year.

Handling and counting the lunch money are the duties of Mary Sowers and Anne Ballard

Our three hard-working custodians deserved a great deal of credit for keeping our school in excellent working condition. Some of their duties included cleaning up after dances, mending broken equipment, and shoveling snow.

Although we enjoyed many summer vacations, their never-ending schedules were busily filled in preparation for the coming year.

Busy throughout the day with major as well as insignificant jobs are Masters Raymond Sparks, John Kay, and Rader Stewart, our custodians.

and Safety Are Their Concern

This year eleven buses transported 1,843 pupils. Each day began with a crowded bus ride to school and discussions of daily plans with a friend. At 2:20 the busy day was over and buses headed homeward.

ROW 2: Harsh Alley, Rader Stewart, Donald Bennson, Milton Vincent, Jack Morris.

School, the place where knowledge is gained and where lasting friendships are born. Sometimes a quarrel or too much homework makes school seem a dull routine; but somewhere a feeling of expectation stirs and brings with it new goals, new hopes, and new strength.

Our senior class was the first class to participate in a Senior Seminar. The half-day session was divided into three parts. The first was an introduction to economics given by Dr. John Steinburgge, a professor at the University of Dayton. Discussions of the topic by smaller groups consumed the second hour. After reuniting, the third hour was spent summarizing what we had learned.

A moment we all cherish is experienced by Pat Leiter and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Scott J. Leiter.

Though Our Paths May Part,
Fond Memories Will Remain

FELLOW CLASSMATES,

It seems to me that as we become older, time passes faster and faster. In this Senior Year, the final and most important year of our schooling, the hours must only have had thirty minutes instead of the usual sixty. Each of us has had so very much to do.

Homework, as usual, has occupied a great part of our time. It was late many times and occasionally inadequate; but we struggled on, regardless. The Class of 1963 has given its time regularly to extracurricular activities. Our Senior Class can pride itself in the accomplishments of its members in the field of athletics, in the area of musical endeavor, and in excellence of scholastic achievement.

Simply getting to the Senior Class has been an accomplishment for some, and those prior eleven years cannot be disregarded. Surely if we are to make anything of our lives, there must be a solid foundation to build on; and that foundation was laid in the past years of education. Habits and ideas that you have here at W.C.H.S. will guide you, or perhaps haunt you, throughout your life. A good citizen in the Class will be a good citizen for his country.

The adult world that we are about to enter is not the world that our parents met. It is not even the world graduates of five years ago encountered. This country has many problems. Our generation cannot solve all of them, but it can work diligently and do away with many of them. Should this generation fail, perhaps our country and all of its blessings will not be around for our posterity.

Certainly all is far from dark. We have wonderful opportunities before us; think of the future. The routine of adult life will go on for over fifty years; therefore, do not be ready too soon to fall into a mold. Whatever you do, work hard to be the best in your particular field. Finally, do what you can to help our nation so that it will not fade from the earth.

Sincerely,

Juniors Serve School

Making favors from pipe cleaners and kleenex for the children at Barney Convalescent Hospital kept Y-Teen girls Terry Fuller, Bev Wolfe, and Junell Combs busy at club meetings

Great expectations of hard work and fun started off the school year for the Class of 1964. As the year progressed, their plans developed into such exciting activity that the juniors were kept extremely busy throughout the year preening themselves to be assets in athletics, clubs, and classes.

"Buy your candy . . . or else!" was a familiar chant heard late in November. The juniors' task of selling Christmas candy was to finance the Junior-Senior Reception held in the spring. This reception, a tradition held by West Carrollton Senior High School, is one of the biggest social events of the year's calendar.

Just before Christmas, when individual finances were exceedingly low, the big winter event arrived—the Prom. It was unbelievable that this day of much planning had come and gone so quickly.

On the twenty-second of March, seventeen members of the Junior Class tried their hands at dramatics. Under the capable direction of Mrs. Patricia La Bruyere, the cast not only succeeded in having much fun but also in producing an exceptionally fine performance of "No More Homework."

To wind up an exhaustive school year, the Junior-Senior Reception was held on April 5 at Wampler's Barn. The dinner-dance affair was the most important event of the year. After dinner, the juniors and seniors danced to music provided by Joe Aceto's Orchestra. Then the Juniors turned their eyes toward next year—the BIGGEST one of all.

CLASS MOTTO: "Our greatest glory is not in never failing, but is rising every time we fall."

Stephanee Stevenson finds that note-taking in Spanish is rewarding when test time arrives.

After carefully studying the biology problem, these sophomores are eager to recite their opinions.

Who Are the Sophomores?

Who are the sophomores? It is possible to answer this question in only one way. The sophomores are a capable group of 302 high school students who are eager to attain success in their scholastic endeavors as well as in their extracurricular activities.

Well represented, the Class of '65 has participated in all phases of school life. Several clubs and organizations were open to them when they were freshmen; and as sophomores they found invitations of membership extended to them by the Y-Teens, the Hi-Y, the Universe Club, JCOWA and many other equally fine clubs. The sophomores were not merely joiners; they assumed active roles in their club activities and proved themselves to be valuable assets to all of the organizations, old and new.

The main event sponsored by the Sophomore Class was the Gary Brane Scholarship Fund which will provide college scholarships for several members of the class of 1965. This was started in memory of a fellow classmate who lost his life in a bicycle-automobile accident in the fall. By sponsoring a dance to raise money for this fund, they netted over 500 dollars.

Under the supervision of their advisers, Mr. Aidt, Mr. Hubbard, Mrs. LaBruyere, Mr. Landis, Miss Milner, Mr. Newberg, Mr. Pack, and Mr. Riddle, and the leadership of their officers, the Class of '65 sought and attained recognition. Cooperation and willingness to work made the class successful. Sophomores considered each new problem a challenge and hoped that many of the experiences they had this year would prove to be a firm foundation for their future responsibilities.

"Mind your manners!" "Do a good deed!" When the Student Council initiated Courtesy Week, these were a few of the comments heard. Besides this project, the nine senators and all homeroom representatives sponsored the Community and Red Cross Drives, the student lounge decorations at Christmas, new parking lot lights, and the buses for all away basketball games. Thus, our Student Council tried to promote better school spirit and to encourage a closer relationship between the students and the faculty.

Passing through the student lounge, students were filled with Christmas spirit when they saw the student council's decoration

Catching adviser Mr. Lyle Fox, enjoying a few moments of relaxation during a busy day, is a rare occasion for the council members; although he is never too busy to lend a capable helping hand

Lloyd Cooper, Fred Beard, Louanna Lindsay, Eleanor Helfinstine, and Carol Reed are active participants in a discussion taking place at a special evening meeting held at the high school.

Sharyn Hearn and Jim Strader lead a discussion on the need for proper lighting in our new parking lots. As a result of this meeting, new lights were installed in all the parking lots.

Future Nurses Assist in School Clinic

Mrs. Elizabeth DeWeese, adviser, assists Nancy Rehse and Marty Werner in making cotton balls for one of the club's projects

Nancy Rehse portrays a nurse in a Sophomore Assembly

Making Christmas animals and cookies for the children at Barney Convalescent Hospital, giving baskets of food to the needy families, and donating magazine subscriptions to Shawn Acres, composed this year's main projects at West Carrollton High School.

During the year, the girls had to earn ten hours of credit. Babysitting, working in the school clinic, and performing other goodwill projects were ways in which this credit was earned

In October the club attended a tea at Miami Valley Hospital. There they were given a tour of the hospital and nurses' home

Also, the members of the club were introduced to fields of medicine, in which they might be interested, by speakers who included a dental hygienist, a psychologist and a dentist.

Game of Ancients Played by Students

"Check . . . checkmate." Thus ends another thought-provoking game of the Chess Club.

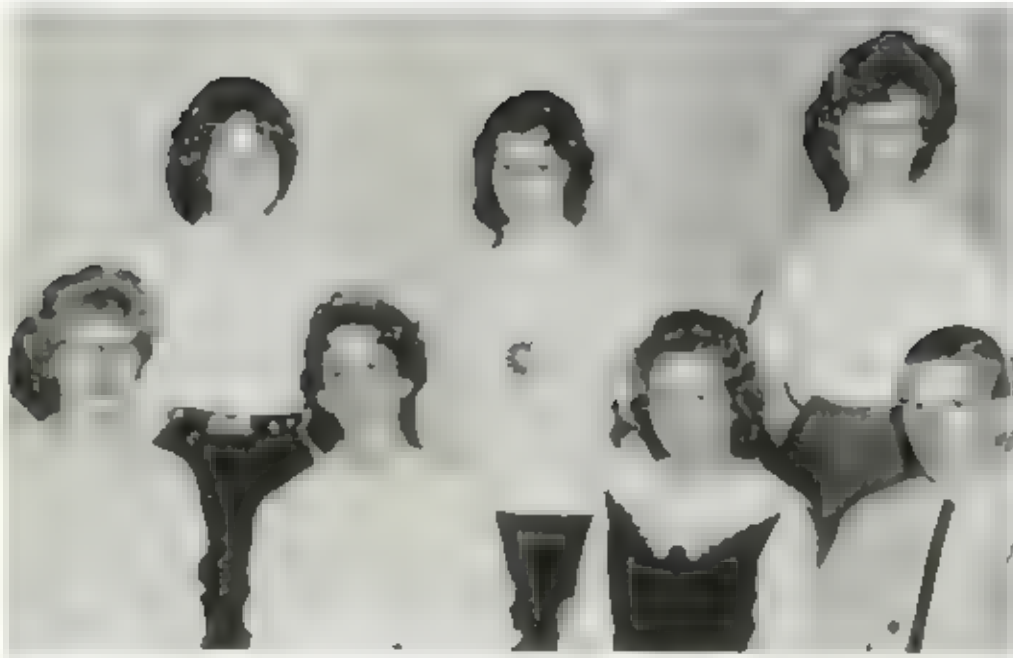

Every other Tuesday you would find members of the club mulling over capture plays. Mr. John Hall, adviser, started this club for the first time two years ago with the purpose of teaching students the fundamentals of the game that provided amusement centuries ago.

Boys predominated the club membership, but a few girls did join the ranks later on to pit their skills against the opposite sex. Everyone agreed that experience is the best teacher when it comes to becoming an accomplished chess player.

1963 PIRATAN Staff Strives

Editorial Staff: Shoemaker, Wiegert, McCann, Campbell. ROW 2—Gipson, Zennie, Siens

Our PIRATAN Staff, which meets everyday during the last school period, is divided into two parts: business and editorial. The business staff raises enough money by selling advertising to match that brought in by subscription sales.

The editorial staff makes the yearbook. Coming in after school and on Saturdays to finish layouts and write headlines, captions, and copy is only a part of the job.

Therefore, accepting a position on the PIRATAN means accepting a big responsibility.

to Better B+ Yearbook Rating

Craig Redder and Junell Combs agree that the job of headline-making is not so easy as it seems.

Beginning with the week spent at Ohio University Publications Conference in June, 1962, until the last page was sent in March, the 1963 PIRATAN staff was kept busy.

August was dedicated to selling advertising; September found the staff looking for picture ideas involving the school; October, everyone turned salesman and sold subscriptions to the yearbook. November was deadline. Hurriedly completing the unfinished lay-outs and copy under the urgent pleas of Editor and adviser, the staff met their first obstacle. December, with Christmas vacation, provided some diversion time. But no one was allowed to get into the January and February slump with another deadline on hand. March brought the final deadline. And with a sigh of relief, the 1963 PIRATAN was on its way to the publisher, leaving a tired, happy but much wiser staff to sit back and revise all the deadline stories.

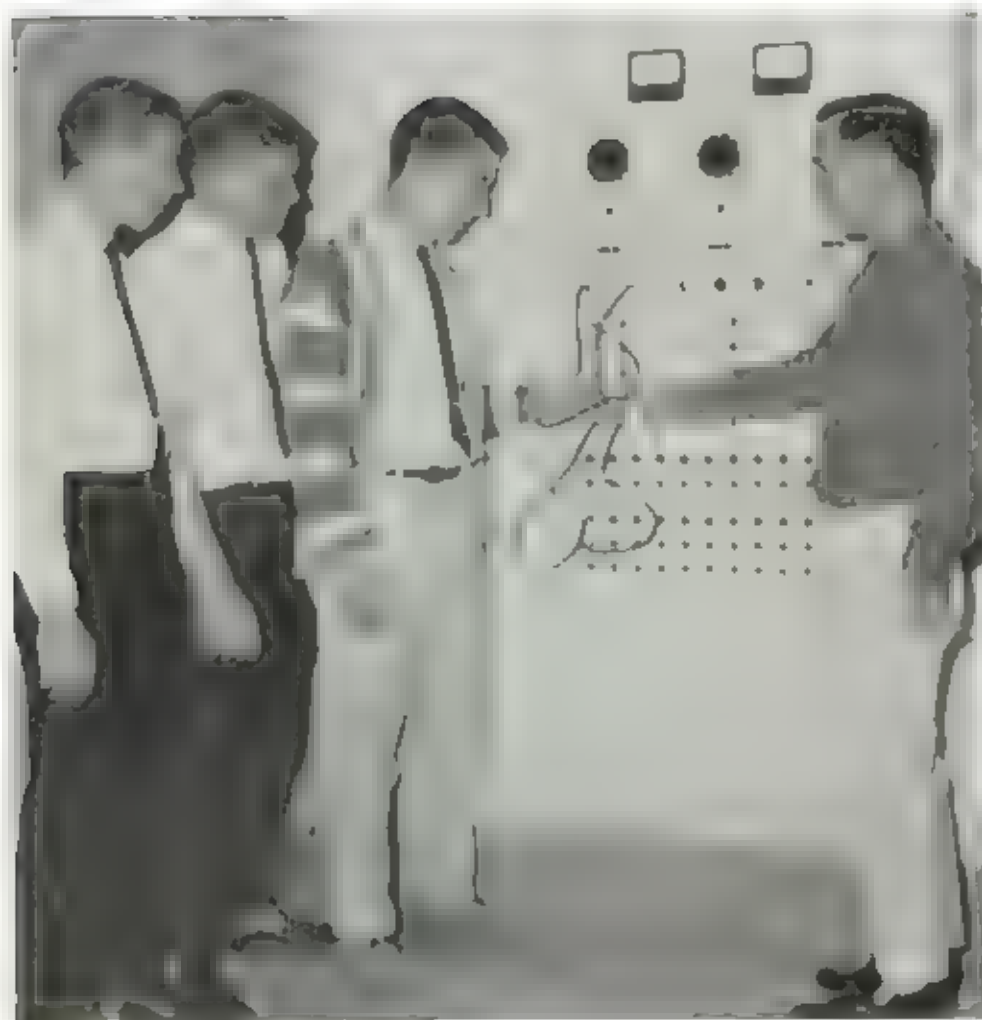

Mrs. Waller and Ginny Wiegert seem to be faced with serious problems as the deadline is here, but not all the necessary pictures are!

Field trips, movies, speakers, and working on projects, were on the agenda for the Universe Club this year. With a total of twenty-eight members, the club's motto and purpose was to promote an active interest in science.

Each year the Universe Club sponsors the annual Spaceman's Ball and this year was no exception. For the week previous to the dance, an unidentified spaceman roamed the halls of the school.

The night of the dance, students voted, telling who they thought the spaceman was. This year's spaceman? Denny Brown. This dance, which was only one of the club's projects, was a complete success.

Faculty Selects Honor Society

Members of the National Honor Society are chosen on the basis of scholastic ability, activity, achievement, and over-all citizenship. Following preliminary balloting, certain faculty members perform the final task of choosing the selected students who have maintained a 3.5 average throughout high school.

New members are chosen after the first semester of their junior and senior years. Later, at the year-end awards assembly, they are officially inducted into the National Honor Society.

Mr. Strahan, principal, is just one of the members of the faculty who choose the National Honor Society

Mrs. Hussey, Marilyn Knear, Helen Gray, and Terri Stoltz can affirm that proofreading the final copy of the Pirates Log is a long and tedious job.

With the clatter of typewriters and mimeo machines, the nineteen members of the Pirates' Log staff published the school paper. Guided by their advisor Mrs. Ruth Hussey, they kept the students and faculty informed and entertained with school dealings.

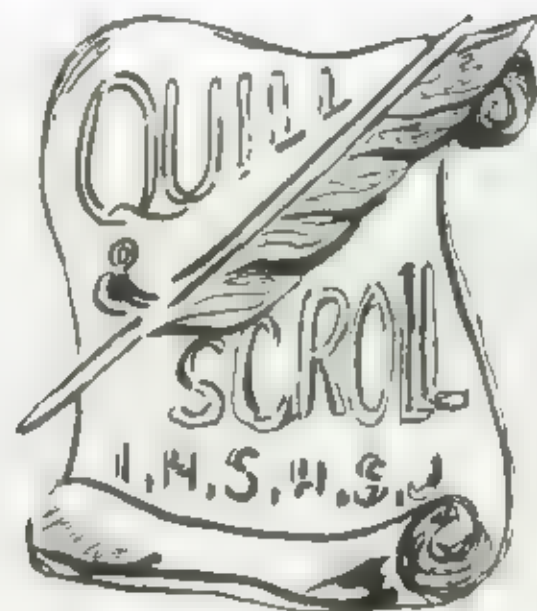

The paper was sold by semester subscriptions for the first time this year, and many students took advantage of this saving. Another first is that the Log has now become a weekly edition, which pleased the student body. Also, the Pirates' Log added pictures for the first time through the use of the Mimeo-Fax process.

Three special publications were printed for the enjoyment of the school: a Christmas edition, an April Fool edition, and a special Senior edition.

Sponsoring the Paper's Caper, February 1, was a change from the usual deadline daze.

F.T.A. Explores Art of Education

President, Lynn Shostack, and adviser, Mr. Paul Weiler, preside over the meeting of the Future Teachers of America

Carrying glowing candles and reciting the pledge of the Future Teachers, eighteen new members were inducted into the Future Teachers of America at West Carrollton High School on October 8, 1962. This candlelight moment was followed by a brief summation of the purpose and duties of the club throughout the year at West Carrollton.

The Future Teachers of America operates on a three-year schedule. This year the organization was in the third phase of its program, which included guest speakers from different grade levels in our school system. At the end of the School year, the Senior members of the club had a meeting dedicated to them. There, each senior talked about the college that he plans to attend and what subjects he is to study.

Attending different teacher conferences, substituting after school for teachers, going ice skating, caroling, and just having a good time, constituted most of the biweekly meetings. Guided by the club's able sponsor, Mr. Paul Weiler, the members, who will be our future teachers of tomorrow, faithfully attended the club meets.

During the summer months all twenty-three members of the West Carrollton kickline canvassed the community and collected enough money to purchase these uniforms.

Co-captains Darlene Siens and Paula Gabbard led the Carroll-Tones through their drills at practices.

Getting ready to perform at a pep assembly is always a nerve-racking but rewarding experience as shown by Louise Lee and Sharon Abner.

that were held in July and August, and twice a week after school. Such rehearsals proved to be rewarding when the Carroll-Tones performed during the half-time of the football and basketball games, at pep assemblies, and at the Sophomore Variety Show.

Enjoyable Programs

One hundred and thirty-six voices blended harmoniously together in song to comprise the West Carrollton High School Chorus. This organization provided an opportunity to boy and girl students who are interested in, and enjoy choral singing.

Under the direction of Mr. Robert Dittman, the chorus met every morning for instruction and practice. Not only could their voices be heard around school, but the choir did a limited amount of traveling in and out of town to make performances.

The choir's first performance of the season was a pre-Christmas program held at the West Carrollton Junior High School auditorium on December 8, 1962. The Dayton Art Institute was their next stop, where they presented a concert on February 25, 1963. Their selections varied from folk songs and ballads, to religious music and Negro spirituals. With little more than a week to rest, they were ready to present their musical, "Where's Charley." Not only did this Broadway musical, that ran three nights, give experience and diversion to the cast, it proved to be very entertaining to the overwhelmingly filled audiences.

The members of the West Carrollton choir received experience and promoted the course of good music at West Carrollton and throughout the entire State.

The West Carrollton High School precision marching band began its season early in August. The majorettes and drum major were off to separate camps to prepare for their performances with the band. Upon their return, plans were in order for a full week of band camp at Camp Luella Mae where the unit learned four new precision shows for the season. At the end of the week, the invitation was again extended for the group to perform at Sommerville, Ohio.

The second event of the season was a performance at the annual Montgomery County Fair, Dayton, Ohio.

Over the next three months, the Marching 90 presented halftime shows during the football season.

With the marching season completed, individual auditions were held for membership in the Concert Band; and rehearsals began for an interesting and varied study of concert music.

The annual Christmas Dinner-Dance sponsored by the Band Boosters was held in December for the band members and their guests. Marshall Reed's orchestra provided music for dancing from 8 to 11 pm.

The West Carrollton High School Concert Band began its season early with performances at the annual Band Boosters Country Fair. Public concerts and assemblies were presented during the winter months. March and April brought participation in the Ohio Music Education Association solo-ensemble and large group events on the district and state level. The results of these competitions were not available at the time of printing. However, in past years they have been most commendable.

Concert Band

Performances of the Pep Band and majorettes were also a sideline at basketball games during the concert season.

Presenting the final formal concert, the musicians turned to thoughts of their coming trip to Miami Beach, Florida.

As the school term came to a close, awards were presented to the outstanding students of the year at both the school assembly and the award dinner sponsored by the West Carrollton Band Boosters.

The West Carrollton school system is indeed fortunate in having such an extensive music department.

Strenuous Practice Prepare

Proving that coaches take pride in their coaching ability, Coach Bingamon shows Wesley Garrison a basic fundamental of blocking.

For forty-eight minutes each week, for ten weeks each fall, the football team of West Carrollton Senior High School played the other football teams of the Southwestern Buckeye League.

Most students do not realize the hours of practice that are necessary for these contests. The boys who signed up for the team last May lifted weights during the latter part of the school year and participated in a physical fitness program sponsored by the athletic board during the summer months.

Official football practice began on August 17 and ended on November 9, totaling twelve weeks of long, hard training. Each two-hour practice consisted of calisthenics, agility drills, tackling practice, scrimmages, and windsprints. These boys sacrificed much of their time for everyone's enjoyment on Friday night.

With the help of six returning lettermen, the Pirates easily took the Southwestern Buckeye League crown. The Pirates also outran their non-league opponents winning six meets and losing one. Although cross country is a sport with few spectators, the members of the squad gave all they could to make this season a victorious one.

Victory Is Our Cry

Planning pep assemblies and making the bleachers shake with school spirit are two of our cheerleaders' many duties

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS: Marie Wilson, front, Lee Jean Jordan, Bev Wolfe, and Be Light. Absent, Jan Houck

To become a West Carrollton Cheerleader, a girl must meet certain requirements. Not only must she maintain a C average and submit an application to the cheerleading adviser, but also must be screened by a faculty panel. The student body then does the final screening in a special pep assembly.

In October, the varsity cheerleaders, accompanied by Miss Mary Lu Burns, attended, for the first time, Ohio's seventh annual cheerleading clinic at Oxford's Talawanda High School. The girls received instruction on sportsmanship, school spirit, crowd psychology, new routines demonstrations, and the qualifications of good cheerleader.

Under the expert coaching of Miss Jones, the girls' varsity and reserve basketball teams worked laboriously. Their efforts were hindered by some losses, but as the old saying goes—you can't keep a good man down.

Bruised Knees and Broken Nails Go With Girls' Sports

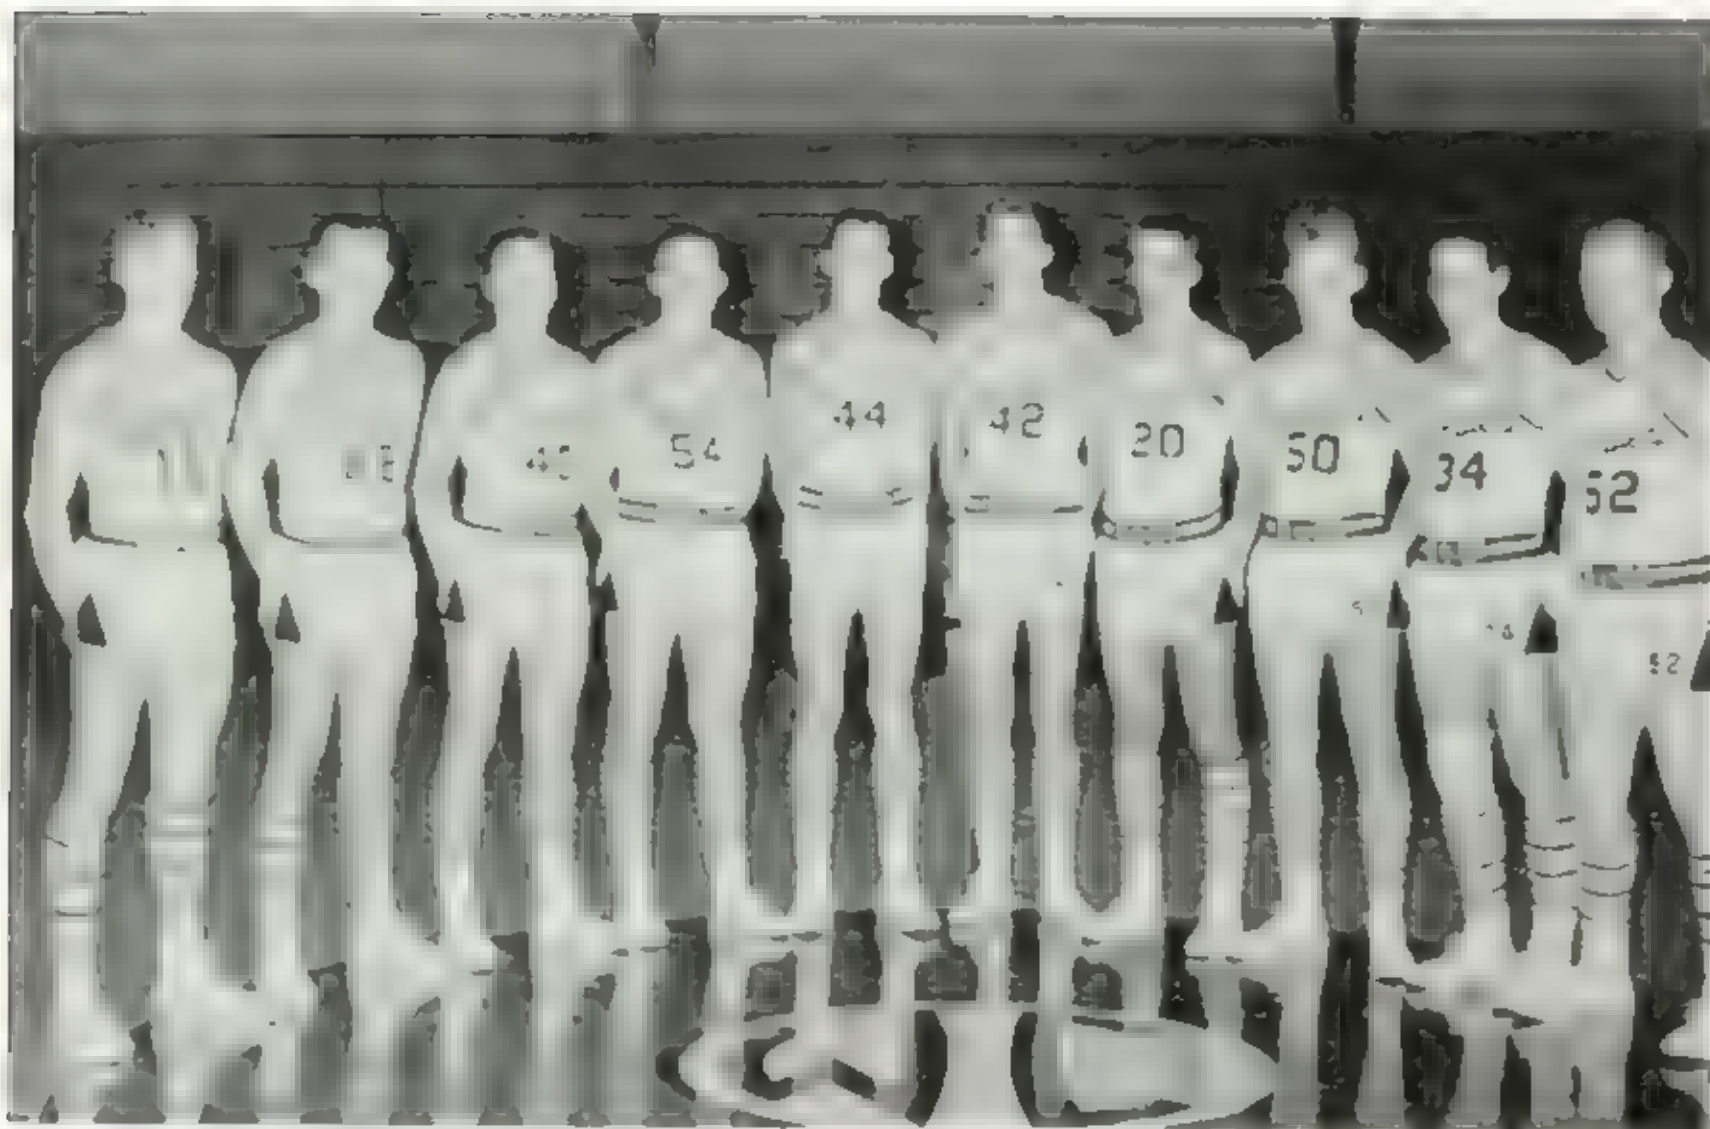

Both girls' varsity and reserve hockey teams worked hard at practices and at games.

Although their losses outnumbered their wins, the girls never lost spirit or sportsmanship.

Pirates Keep Rolling

Although the Pirates did not fare as well this year as in the past seasons, needed experience was gained for the coming year. Progressing steadily through the season the team succeeded in upsetting a few of the opposing teams. Thrills were provided by the Pirate five to bring cheers from the throngs of spectators assembled in the gym on game night. None of this would have been possible without the long hours of practice, and the cooperation of each player to do his best for the good of the team.

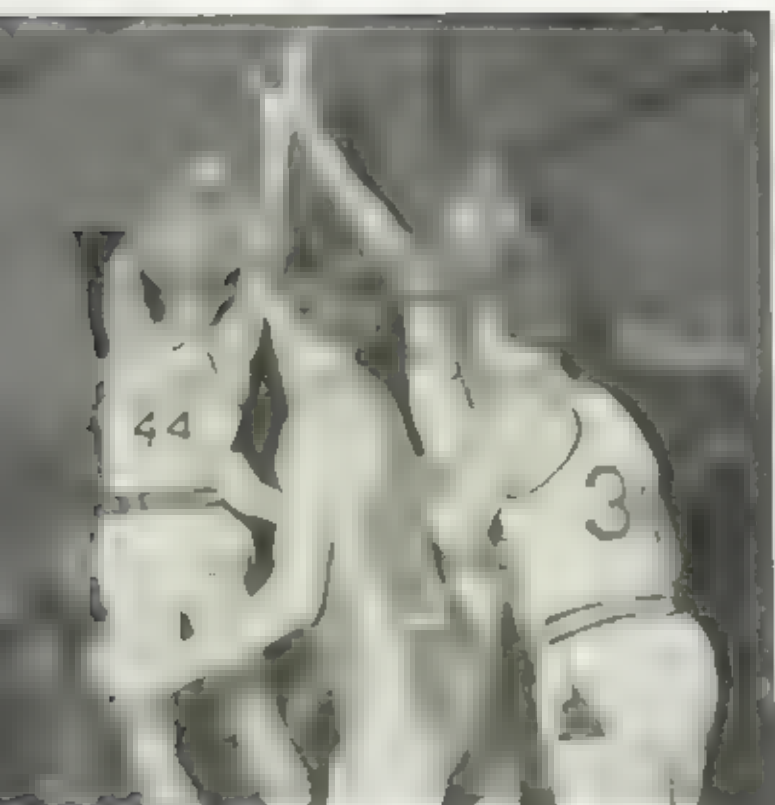

Hesitating to see if that shot is going to be worth two more points, Pirates Ernie Langdon, Tom Combs, and Bob Roark freeze with apprehension.

Practicing, practicing, practicing, this is the way the reserves spent most of their afternoons. Under the direction of Mr. Bingamon, a few of the reserve boys made the big step to the varsity team half way through the season. Like the varsity, the reserves couldn't seem to get on the winning list until the season was well under way. The reserves consisted of all juniors and sophomores who hoped to be the varsity of tomorrow. Some made the grade, others didn't. There is one thing we can be sure of, however, win or lose the reserve players played the best they could.

For the first time in the school's history, West Carrollton initiated a new class of Pirates, the sophomore basketball team.

This team, under the supervision of Mr. Dean Pond, is open to any sophomore boy who is not a member of the varsity or reserve team. When there is an opening on the reserve team, a sophomore may move up to fill this spot; thus giving more experience to the Pirate cagers.

Although the season was short, the sophomore team played hard. With this young spirit and experience gained, the West Carrollton basketball teams of the future will be a squad to be feared.

This school year of 1962-63 saw many firsts at West Carrollton High. Among these firsts was the new wrestling team, the first team of its kind in the school's history. Under the direction of Mr. Glen Aidt, the team wriggled and grasped their way through the season, which lasted from November to March.

Wrestling is a sport that takes a maximum of coordination and practice. The 1962-63 team had both of these qualifications. With the big turnout for the team and the immense interest in the sport, wrestling is fast becoming a major sport at West Carrollton High School.

Wednesday afternoons and Thursday evenings furnished time for entertainment and recreation for the student body. Girls and women teachers, who grouped together for teams, bowled on Wednesdays from three to five at the Capri Bowling Lanes, where all 36 lanes were filled for ten weeks with competing teams. The first, second, and third place teams were awarded trophies at the end of the year by Mrs. Gertrude Werner, the girls' physical education teacher.

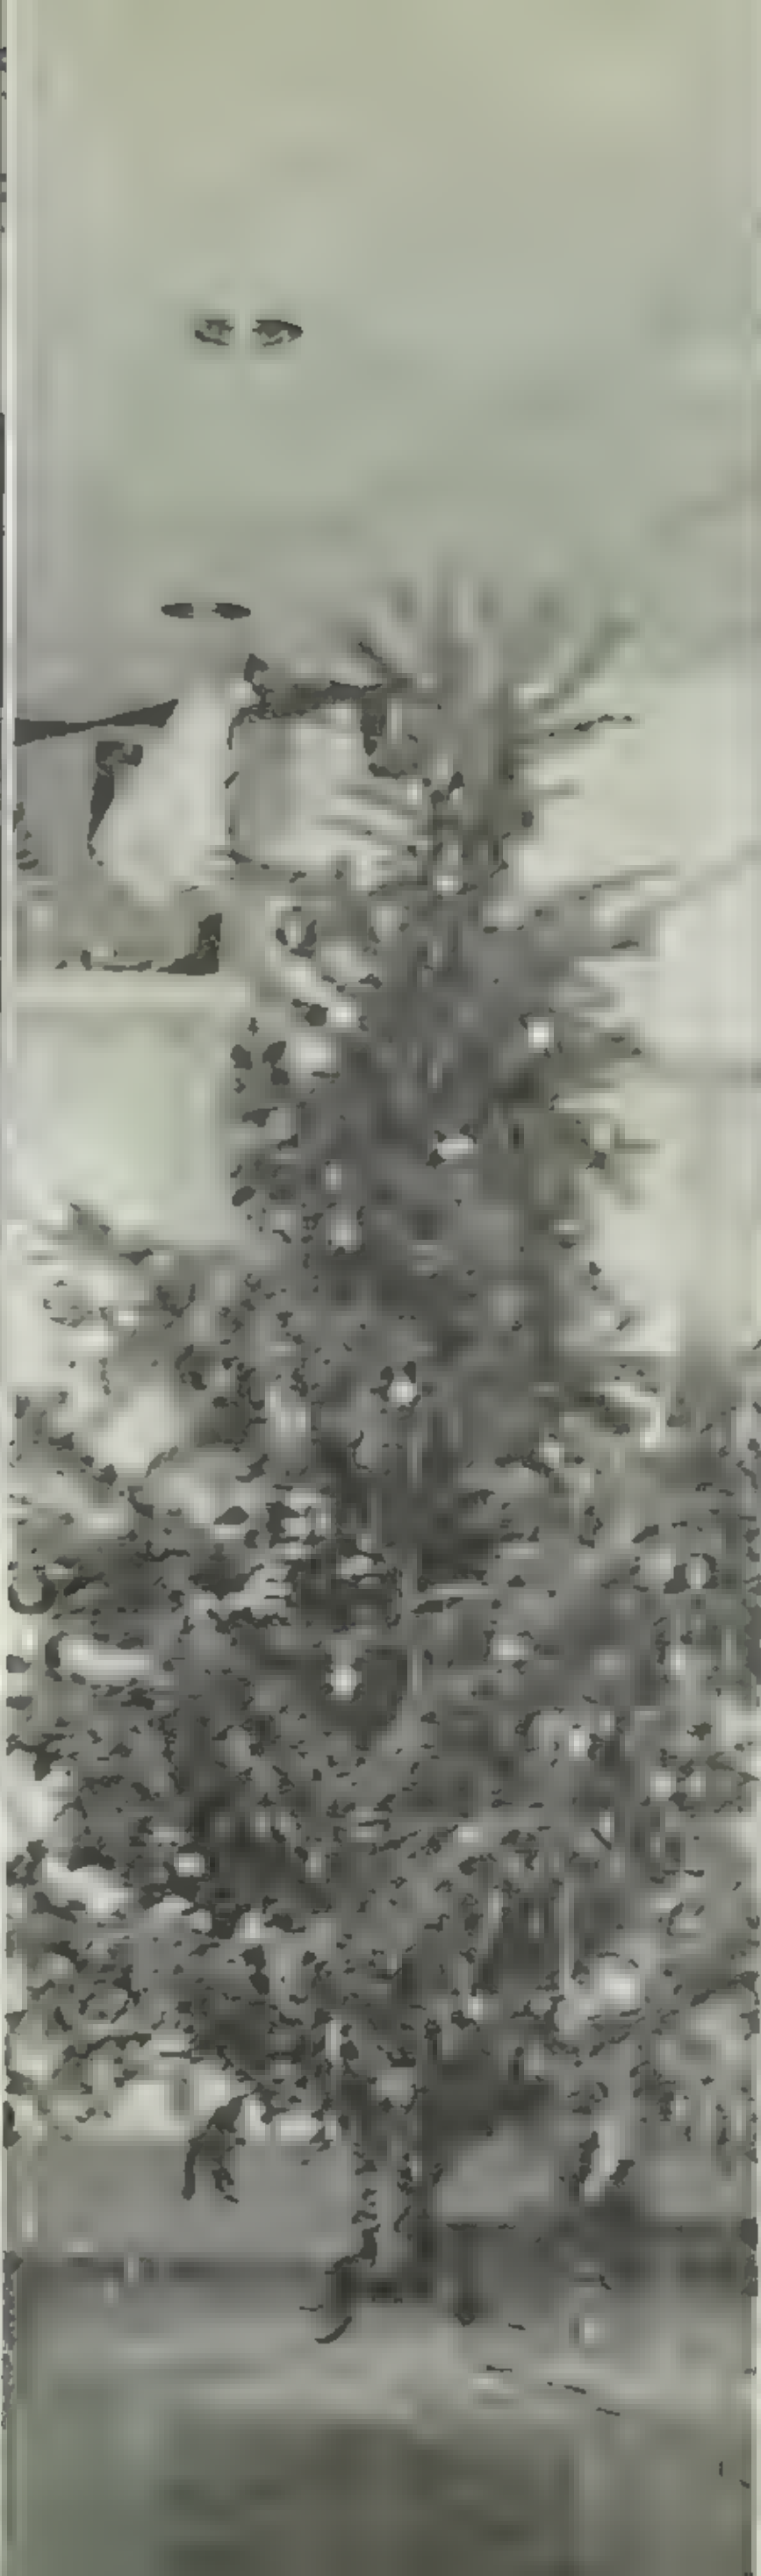

Basketball kept Thursday nights jumping with teams competing for first place in the intramural league. Teachers as well as students formed teams, played, and lost weight in the process. And, we might add, those teachers were hard to beat, if they were beaten.

Tennis shoes that miraculously survive all year and tuxedos that are aired for one night are proof enough of the diverse activities enjoyed by West Carrollton's student body. A thrilling ball game every Friday night, the senior prom, Christmas parties and class plays are just small parts of the vivacious life at our school.

her about the secret bet he made with the rest

'You Can't Kiss Caroline'

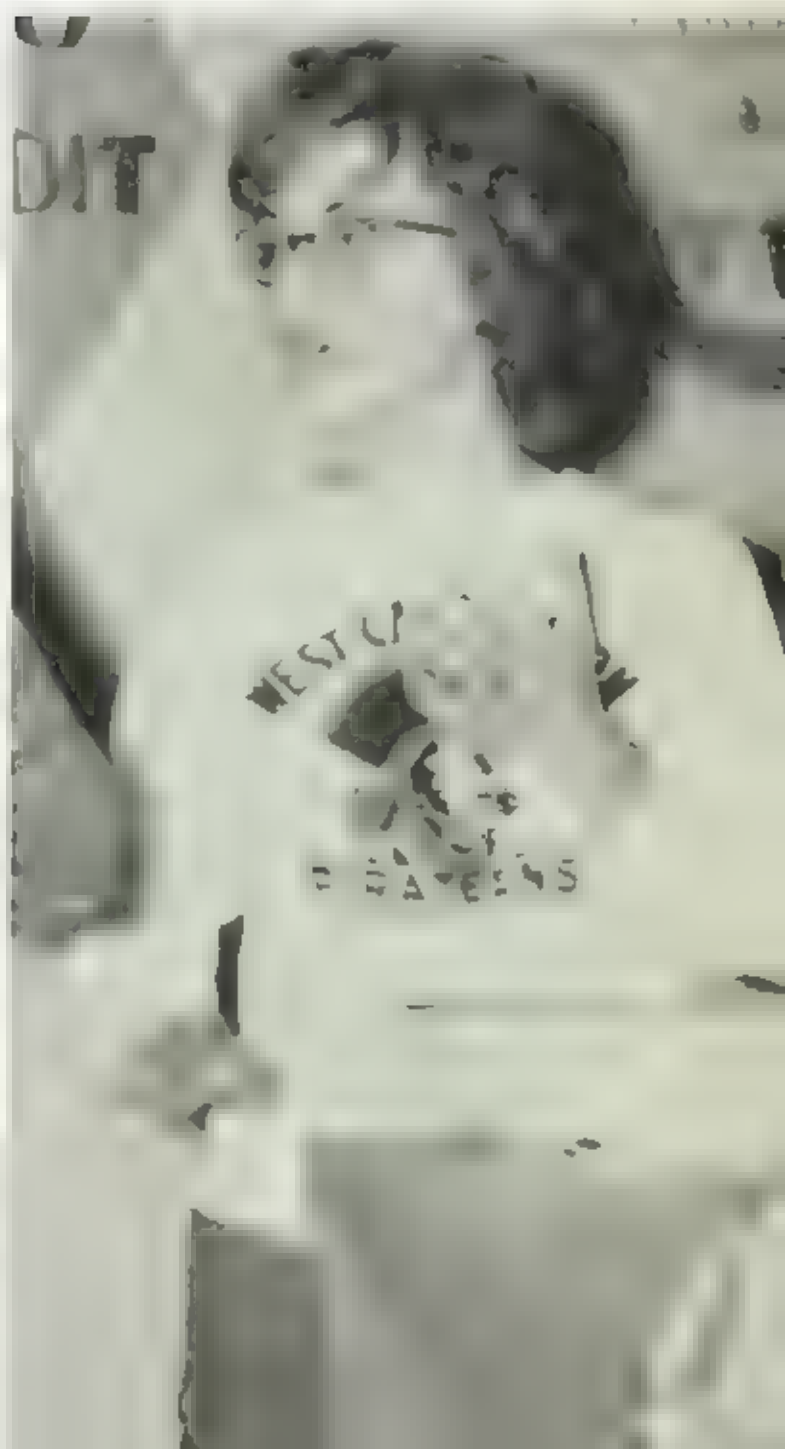

The entire action of the play took place in Ma Rand's corner drugstore. The characters, typical teenagers, nearly put Ma out of business with their usual orders of a glass of water and sometimes a small coke.

In one of their regular after school discussions, Joe, the ladies' man of the group, made a secret bet with the other boys that he could not only get a date with Caroline but also kiss her. Not knowing that Caroline's little sister had overheard this bet, the plot thickened when she confronted them with her "soda blackmail."

Becoming adept at stage make-up are Jenkins, Rehse, Rankin, Walkup, Kocher, and Debrezeni.

Working on the set, Norma Kocher finds the task more difficult than she anticipated.

The Night

The annual Homecoming ceremonies, presented by the Class of 1963, were held on October 5, 1962. A cold night and a damp field lent a typical football atmosphere to the festivities which were held during the halftime of the Madison-West Carrollton game. The queen and her attendants left the convertibles and walked to the center of a large heart that was formed by the band. Last year's queen, Marcia Helfinstine, crowned this year's queen, Nancy Rehse; and the captain of the football team, Ray Kress, gave her the traditional kiss.

After the ceremonies, the queen and her attendants took their honored places in the stadium. The royal court rooted for the team for the rest of the game. Then they departed for the Homecoming dance, the theme of which was "Regimental Serenade."

Former queen Marcia Helfinstine crowns this year's queen, Nancy Rehse, at half time ceremonies.

Chosen from six senior finalists by the 1963 Senior Class is Nancy Rehse. Queen Nancy also is honored this year as Queen of the Tipp City Mum Festival where she was selected from eleven other candidates.

Nancy chose Kim Green and Ralph Light to attend her as the flower girl and crown bearer, respectively.

Colleges Converge Here

College Night, which was held on January 10, 1963, enabled students and parents to consult with colleges throughout the Ohio area. Eleven colleges were represented, and 490 students and parents attended the Conference. Bowling Green, Capital, Cincinnati, Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, Dayton, Miami, Ohio State, Ohio University, Otterbein, Wilmington, and Wittenberg were the colleges represented. The guidance department declared the evening a real success.

Students are filed as parents and students exchange rooms to attend night's second session

"Should we let Mr. Landis and Mr. Kennedy into the dance?" Lynn Shostack inquires of Marty Verner and Eric Elder

Enjoying a short rest and a bit of conversation, Mr. and Mrs. John Hall, Mrs. J. Werner and Mrs. M. Huffman relax between dances amid the Christmas decoration of the gay prom setting

Senior Prom Adds

Presented by the Senior Class of 1963, the annual senior prom was held on December 21, 1962, at Wampler Ball Room. Decorations to fit in with the "Christmas Prom" included angels and evergreens. A huge Christmas tree was colorfully decorated to supply the proper Christmas spirit. Glancing over this crowd, everyone noticed that the girls' dresses were comparable to glistering Christmas tree ornaments.

Dancing to the music of Karl Taylor's Orchestra from 8:30 until 11:30 was a slightly tiring but thrilling experience. But, when the time came to leave the dance, the weariness left and the thrill shifted to excitement at the expectation of "dining out." Everyone knew that the most important night of the year was not yet over.

Annie Tucker and Barbara Burhart marvel at how wonderful the whole night is

o Holiday Enjoyment

Dressed in a red velvet gown trimmed in white feathers, Dixie made remarks to her partner, Ken Strader, "Oh, such an enchanting evening."

Jon Gilbert tries his luck with the twist

Marty Warner and Eric Elder both agree the decorations are out of this world

Dick Cowdry and Debbie Dayspring agree that this is a night to remember

There are many things that go into the making of a yearbook, and each one of them deserves its own special thanks. The 1963 staff wishes to thank the many patrons and subscribers of this year's PIRATAN, for without their help this book could not have been published.

The staff hopes that they have acquainted you with our new school symbol, The Pirate Ship, and have given you an insight to our life at West Carrollton.

As editor of this yearbook, I can only say thank you to my staff and to our adviser, Mrs. Rose-Mary Waller. I know that without their time and efforts the 1963 PIRATAN could not have been made.

Thank you,

Ginny Wiegert

Editor '63
